varied with me of late by a trip to Sacramento for * * and by a most interesting trip through the Chinese section of San Francisco. Of the former I have little to say, as it was mainly on business; but of the latter I could easily write a book, did fact that some ceremony was about time allow. One of my men has an acquaintance named -, who is a detective, and one of good standing among his fellows. Certainly, I have rarely seen a man who of $40, to be paid by his distressed widow, from his look seemed better fitted for his occupation-small, black eyes, hair, and moustache, active and muscular, and as sharp as a briar. We met him at the new prison in 'Frisco by appointment at 8 o'clock P. M. He introduced us to ---, a policeman of the regular force, and the party, consisting of the two officers, ---. and myself, after a cursory view of the city prisons, proceeded to Chinatown. I had often heard of and seen in print accounts of the Chinaman among his brethren, but had little idea of the facts of the case. Nor of the numerous assertions which I had can I give you any adequate notion of the horrors of that trip, and many things cannot be written. Our first visit was to an opium den. Descending a flight of steps and traversing a dark underground alley, to tind our way through which - had to light a candle, we came to a barred and bolted door, through which, by some Chinese "open sesume" given by ---, we entered a room. This apartment was burrowed out below the foundations of the building. The height of an ordinary story had been divided into three stories, each about six feet or less in height. Through the lowest of these we passed by a narrow passage, on each side of which were tiers of In each berth were two Chinamen. They were in every stage of intoxication. A lady who lives in the but not as rough as the people whose busitown of Centralia, in the State of Illinois, said nothing until all the rest were through talking. Then, one day last week, she told the editor of the St. Louis Republican to look into the No. of the Republican that was printed on the 21st of September, 1858. The editor looked and found an account of how two little children took a trip in a ball-on-all by themselves. On that day an aëronaut, or sailor of the air, named Brooks, tilled his air-ship with gas on the farm of a Mr. Harvey, who lived near Centralia. He expected to sail up in the afternoon. About noontime Mr. Harvey put his two children into of extraordinary size. the basket of the balloon just to please them, and not thinking for a moment of any danger. The balloon was tied to a tree by ropes. All at once a gust of wind broke the ropes, and the balloon shot up into the sky with nobody but the two children in the basket. Mr. Harvey was wild with grief, and shouted aloud, "They're lost, Lewisburg, W. Va., for the White Sulphur they're lost!" All the neighbors ran to Springs, buildings, and appurtenances at time. "I expect we are going to Heaven. Willie," said Nettie. Willie thought it was very cold in Heaven, then, for the higher they went the colder it grew. Nettie wrapped Willie in her apron and held his hand in her lap until he cried himself fast asleep. Then Nettie folded think we must be near the gate now." She meant the gate of Heaven that she had heard about in Sunday school. But Nettie fell asleep too. When she awoke she found that some strange man was lifting her from the basket. The strange man was a farmer in Northern Illinois, who had seen a balloon drifting low down across the field. The rope was dragging, and so he caught it and finded the children safely. The balloon had floated all night. Nettie and Willie's father soon learned that they had been ation would take from his saucer a piece of found, and took them home two days afterward. William Perry, an Englishman; Julius Howle, a German; Isaac Donohue, an Irishman, and Samuel Jackson, colored American, were up, charged with being vagrants. They went to the First station-house for lodgings, and were arrested. Perry and Howle didn't have much to say. Donobue (youth of eighteen) claimed recently to have worked his way from Dublin to Norfolk, and said that he was now walking to Boston on foot. Jackson represented that he was ninety-two years of age, and that he was on his way from Washington to Prince Edward. He was "born and fotched up in Hanover county"; was well acquainted with Patrick Henry and G. Washington. Question: Do you know anything about George Washington cutting down that

Signs and empty dry-goods the air-some by brave men and some by boxes on sidewalks had a rough time of it, ness called them forth upon the streets, where, between blinding grit and the cold, the comforts of home were duly thought of.

It was also a day famous for smoking chimneys. Many good housewives had their sweet tempers ruffled and clean rooms soiled by visitations of smoke and soot, particularly where there were open grates and bituminous coal in use. Winter weather was long coming, but the principal bidders next summer, and JUDGE FARRAR'S LECTURE TO-NIGHT BE-FORE THE YOUNG MEN'S CHRISTIAN ASSO-CIATION .- Judge Farrar will deliver his lecture on "The Adventures of a Lecturer" to-night at Association Hall. The Lecture Committee has been fortunate in securing for the Association the services of several distinguished lecturers this season, and among them none whose lecture will be more heartily received than that of Judge Farrar. The theme of to-night's lecture is a new one, has been only delivered two or three times, and has been pronounced his best effort. Members of the Association will be admitted free.

KNIGHTS OF HONOR .- A number of offieers and members of this order will leave the city this evening to visit Jackson Lodge, near Clover Hill, in Chesterfield county. To-night a supper will be given at the mansion of Mr. S. M. Cheatham, on the Broadrock road, where a distinguished member of the order will deliver a lecture on "The Origin and Progress of the Fraternity."

RICHMOND TALENT .- Miss Bessie Darling. who is to appear at the Theatre next week in "Hunchback," "Ariadne," and "Lady of Lyons," was born in Richmond. She was reared with that care and liberality characteristic of southern households, and went upon the stage in 1873, and is said to be a lady of talent.

CHANGE OF SCHEDULE .- On and after Sunday the evening train will leave the Byrdstreet station for the North at 5 P. M. instead of 5:12, as at present.

MANCHESTER AND VICIAITY.

Til for Tat .- It is understood here that the debt-paying Republicons, who were so severely condemned by the Republican Readjusters in a meeting herd in this city Tuesday night, will hold a meeting of their own at an early date, and will no doubt pass resolutions conflicting to those adopted by the colored Readjusters. At the meeting Tuesday night the action of Bislard Edwards, Atlen Hill, and Henry Cox, who vere candidates upon the Simon-Pure Republican ticket at the late election, was the absorbing topic. Their "pedigrees" were roughly bandled in the resolutions. It is thought that they will have a meeting, and will express their views concerning the pedigrees" of the colored Readjusters.

Special Grand Jury .- The following are the names of the special grand jurors H. Scammell, William B. Chalkley, B. W. Gill, L. G. Simmonson, William P. Beaz-It is ordered that the clerk of this court ley, Z. T. Cheatham, A. B. Clay, and Ju-

Moffett Register .- The amount of revecounty, as copied from the books of the Commissioner of the Revenue, shows a larger collection than there has been made for some time past. The total receipts were $83.16. The report from the Second district has not yet been presented, but the increase there is expected to be in proportion

Brief Items .- The Hustings Court-Judge Clopton presiding-was in session pliesto Richmond and vicinity.] yesterday a short while, and adjourned un-

The drunken inhabitants when fully under the influence were ghastly to look upon, with half-closed and glassy eyes, lips drawn back from their protruding teeth, and limbs contorted as if under torture. The other stories we reached al susation of having left undone something by rickely and slimy ladders. We estimated the number there present at between medines an attendant. And, by the way, it was curious to see the trembling attention which these wretches paid to his orders, and the utter disregard for their feelings which both — and — showed. They seemed to think nothing of kicking open anybody's door and marching in on any one without the slightest ceremony. Any orders not instantly obeyed were enforced by cuffs, kicks, and oaths. I was informed that this was the only way to deal with · John" successfully, and before the trip was over I thoroughly agreed with them. That dinner party was magnificent. The room (about 35 feet wide by 50 feet long) was arched and grained, and the roof supported by curiously-spiralted columns. The arches were elaborately carved, and ornamented with gilded work, ebony, and ivory. Many of the columns were wrapped by carved and gilded dragons, the ceilings frescoed and carved, the walls decorated with gorgeous silks, satins, gildings, &c. The room was illuminated by lanterns suspended from the ceiling, of fantastic shapes and of various tints. At each end of the room was a conservatory of quaint plants, and on one side was a balcony, or rather veranda, filled with blossoming trees and the orchestra, consisting of a violinist who and Willie were going up, up, up all the held his fiddle on his knee; a banjoist, with a queer-looking little instrument-it's drum was covered with the skin of a snake; and a singer who accompanied herself by beating occasionally on a copper hemisphere supported on a tripod, and sang in was informed was a recital of the good her hands and waited. She said: "I deeds of the bost. She was extremely pretty in spite of the moon-eyes; and her paledue silk dress, or rather trowsers and blouse, with gold and coral ornaments, made quite a picturesque outfit. The host and guests, some ten in number, were seated around a round table, their wives taking position, standing at about two paces behind them. The Chinese consider it barbarous to cut food at the table. Everything having been prepared, was served in exquisite something to eat and hand it back to his wife, who took the morsel in her fingers from his chop-stick and greedily devoured it. I ate some of their pastry, tasted some of their meats (what it was is happily a mystery to me), drank a glass of their wine, made from rice-an amber liquid, somewhat thick and sweet, but strongly intoxicating; and in going out I noticed an old codger with enormous spectacles, with tortolseshell rims, seated in a dim nifche writing away with a paint-brush in a Chinese book. I was informed that this was a Chinese reporter-ye gods !- writing a history of the occasion, and that he was regularly appointed to chronicle the deeds of the great man on whom we had intruded. I asked this venerable scribe to write my name. I have it now. It is as follows: * * * * I left, congratulating myself that the Chi-

LOCAL MATTERS.

SUPREME COURT OF APPEALS,-Clemmitt and wife vs. New York Life-Insurance Company. Writ of error and supersedeas

McAllister's executor vs. Stack. From the Circuit Court of Alleghany county. Affirmed, Judge Moncure delivering the times, sealed, and endorsed, making about a pound package. I sincerely pity the hapless Celestial who has to swallow that dose. Among the many incidents which amused us was the following: Wishing to compliment one old Chinese lady, I expressed great admiration for a daughter of hers who was present, and was promptly off-red discount for cash. I did not buy; and seeing the old woman was disposed to bargain, and the young womans listening with interest to the conversation, I incontinently backed out, and, added, in relating it to the boys, "with a very red face." All during our trip the little Chinese children stood up at once on our entrance and shook hands with each member of our party, and if perchance one was passed without the shake, it would toddle after one until it received the handshaking. Of the crowded condition of these people I can give you an idea when I state that within a space of about eight blocks there are 40,000, and that many of the houses within that space are restaurants, stores, shops, theatres, houses of worship, &c., &c. I must not forget to mention The monotony of business has been a little their "Josh"-house, or place of worship.

This is a small room, containing five idols, one of which is the figure of a woman who, a Chinaman told me, lived "too toman yeer go, and was alle same Vilgin Maly." there was nothing really remarkable about this place save the carvings and the be enacted by which a priest or "Josh man" was going to pray a man out of purgatory for and in consideration of the sum who wished to marry again, but could not do so legally until her late "hubby's" soul was emancipated from its present summer residence. I will not add to this already long letter. I have told you the least offensive developments of this trip through Chinatown, and can only say in conclusion of the subject that it would be impossible for me to give you an idea in writing of the squaller, filth, and degradation of this people. My object in going was to satisfy myself of the truth heard and read, but never before realized, and to account for the fact that in the recent election the votes were in proportion of 1,000 for Chinese immigration to 150,000 against it, and in San Francisco 420 votes to 40,000 against. Henceforth I am most unalterably opposed to the Chinese as citizens, or even as sojourners, in any civilized community, and especially so, as I am told opium-smoking is slowly becoming a prominent vice among the lower order of whites. No white labor can compete with them. Their food costs seven cents a day, their bunks tifty cents per month, their opium ments two dollars in six months. They work from fourteen to sixteen hours per day. They live like pigs, and they are late, that I am afraid this letter will have to
